

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Hadlock observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage at their home in North Thetford June 23.

Howard B. Hatch, who was drowned in Gary, Ind., last week, was a former resident of Bennington. He was 33 years old. It is believed he fell into the water while working on a dam. The body was not found for 36 hours.

The family of O. W. Follett of Townshend enjoyed sugar on snow for dessert at their Sunday dinner, July 1. The snow was secured from a deep ravine on the northern slope of their farm, where it had drifted to a great depth during the winter.

The white lady's slipper, recently reported from Marshfield in the newspapers, a very rare plant in New England—only one having been found in Maine and one in Massachusetts—has been seen in an swamp in East Calais this season and also two years ago, by Miss Sylvia H. Bliss of that place.

The report of the Vermont customs district for the month of June, 1916, shows total imports of $2,513,620 as compared with $1,686,155 for June, 1915, but a decrease of nearly $1,000,000 from the month of May of this year. Duties collected totaled $25,028.

Richard Grover of North Springfield was accidentally shot June 30 by his nine-year-old son, Clarence, and as a result both had to be taken to a hospital. The senior Grover had a badly shattered wrist, the gun being heavily loaded, and the boy's face was badly cut.

Having walked nearly 28 miles from their home in Starksboro, Robert Phillips and nephew were picked up Sunday afternoon by an automobile when near the experiment farm in Burlington. They came to town to see the circus, and as there was no means of conveyance at hand they set out to cover the distance by foot.

The body found in the Connecticut river Monday near the plant of the Standard Oil company in Brattleboro, was identified as that of Richard Lynch, who had worked for the last two weeks in the kitchen of the Brooks house and previous to that spent eight years in Hinsdale, N. H. He was 42 years old.

The collection of Vermont books in the library of the late Horace W. Bailey of Newbury, numbering nearly 500 volumes, has been sold to the Hon. James B. Wilbur of Manchester, an old friend of Mr. Bailey's and for many years an interested collector of Vermont pamphlets and books. Other parts of the large library were secured by Middlebury college and the Newbury library. The remaining books will be sold at auction by a New York bookseller.

More than usual interest is attached to the sale of two farms in West Sandgate. The first, owned by Moses D. Flower of West Rupert and containing 500 acres, has been sold to Dr. J. Arthur Wark of Philadelphia and his brother, Dr. J. Findlay Wark of Corinth, N. Y., who expect to use it as a sheep ranch. The second, of 240 acres, has been sold by William T. Morrow to Mahalia E. Becker of Troy, N. Y. This farm is noted from the fact that Mr. Morrow paid for it with the potatoes he sold off it in two years.

LONG IN ILL HEALTH.

Curtis S. Fletcher Died in Essex Junction at Age of 58.

Essex Junction, July 12.—Curtis S. Fletcher died at his home on Elm street yesterday after a long period of ill health. Pneumonia developed at the last. Mr. Fletcher was born in Essex Center 38 years ago the coming September. He was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher. Practically all of his life was spent in this village, where for many years he was engaged in the grocery and meat business. He was town representative in 1900 and senator in 1906. He was married 38 years ago next October to Ruth Halbert of Westford, who survives him. Mr. Fletcher was a man of genial ways. Besides his wife he is survived by his mother and two brothers, William S. Fletcher of Arlington, Mass., and Ernest R. Fletcher of Hardwick. The funeral will be held at his late home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HISTORIC BRENNER PASS.

This Alpine Gap is a Famous Pathway For Great Armies.

The mighty Brenner pass is the Thymolite of Tyrol. From times immemorial the northern tribes have sought the refinements and culture of the south over this wonderful Alpine saddle, first in fame among all the gaps in the rugged Alpine defenses against the north, and a way which has echoed to the dying cries of warriors and clashing accoutrements of myriad Roman legions and to the noisy disorder of the passage of many armies through more than 2,000 years of restless history.

Innsbruck, the Tyrolean capital, is at the northern terminus of this way, while Rothen, the largely Latinized metropolis of the south, lies 3,000 feet below. Innsbruck is exclusively of the northland, surrounded by pines, apples and fir trees, and Bozen, like Italy beyond the mountains, is in the midst of a region of vines, figs and olives.

Historic points crowd one another along the Brenner. Guidestones of the time of Caracalla and Septimius Severus have been found buried here. Some of the world's greatest generals have traveled this path, north and south, and here the Tyrolean peasant, Andreas Hofer, the simple, untainted Austrian hero, proved himself greater than one of the best officers of Napoleon—National Geographic Bulletin.

TIRELESS INSECTS.

Build For the Strenuous Life, They Are Never Weary.

In "Insects, Their Life Histories and Habits," Harold Bastin, the entomologist, says that, contrary to popular belief, spiders are not insects. Insects have six legs, neither more nor less, and another peculiarity of the insect is that it has wings, sometimes two, more often four. Spiders have eight legs and no wings; therefore spiders are not insects.

Insects have no backbones and no skeletons, says Mr. Bastin, but skins with a hard, durable surface called chitin, which makes up a light shell of armor that forms the outside of the body, to the inside of which the muscles are attached.

Insects do not breathe through their mouths, but through holes in their bodies, called spiracles. Insects have neither veins nor arteries. The blood is pumped directly from the chambered heart into the body cavity, where it bathes and nourishes the organs. Insects have wonderful and enviable digestive organs and feed upon and digest almost any substance from which nourishment may be extracted.

Because of the way they are built insects are particularly fitted for the strenuous life, and a tired insect is a thing unknown. They are always busy traveling, buzzing, biting or seeking some work to do.

Jamaica.

The English admiral Penn and Venables captured and held the island of Jamaica in 1655. The Spanish were entirely expelled in 1655. The capture was part of the effort under Cromwell to crush Spanish power in the West Indies. The whole island had been divided among eight noble Spanish families, who had so discouraged immigrants that the population in 1655, both white and slave, did not exceed 3,000.

A Cough May Lead to Tuberculosis

Distressing and dangerous complications may follow if you neglect it. Even when so serious a stage is reached, Eckman's Alternative may bring relief. For more than twenty years it has been widely used in such cases with beneficial results. As with any medication employed in this trouble, the best results are obtained when the patient pays strict attention to diet and gets plenty of rest and fresh air. Because of its easily assimilable content of calcium chlorid, this preparation is effective where a tonic or builder is indicated. As a corrective of night sweats it has proved most useful. It may be tried with absolute safety, since it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort. At your druggist's. Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.
